Garret W. Mowry, aged 85 years, a well known and highly respected resident, died at his home Friday morning at 7:30 o'clock following an illness of heart complications.

Mr. Mowry was born March 20, 1849 in Oxford, N. Y., the son of Wilson and Lucy Ann Mowry. At the age of four years he came to East Troupsburg with his parents, residing on a farm in that vicinity. On September 11, 1878 he was united in marriage to Miss Estella Moyer, who died several years ago. He was a prominent farmer in East Troupsburg until 39 years ago when he and Mrs. Mowry moved to his late home in this place where he continued his agricultural work.

He was a member of the Woodhull Baptist Church having served as deacon for many years and was at the time of his death a deacon and trustee of the church. His true Christian character was shown in his every day life, his greatest aim was for the betterment of mankind. No Christian duty was ever too large for him to undertake and he was ever willing to assist when an opportunity arose. The Mowry Bible Class of the Baptist Sunday school, organized several years ago, was named in his honor. He was also a member of the Woodhull Grange. His genial disposition and keen sense of humor won for him many loyal friends.

Croft, pastor of the church officiated, assisted by the Rev. W. C. Gates of Jasper. Rev. Croft spoke from the text chosen by Mr. Mowry, Matt. 24:44: Therefore be ye also ready; for in such an hour as ye think not the Son of man cometh, and also from 2nd Sam. 3:38: And the king said unto his servants, know ye not that there is a prince and a great man fallen this day in Israel?

Speaker At Club Meeting Tells Listeners Bank Rules Conflict

Robert Brown in Ad Club Talk Tells Men Banking is Hedged With Rigid Regulations — Few Bankers Know Where They Stand.

Robert W. Brown, former Addison young man, talked to members of the Addison Advertising Club of which he was once president, on the subject of banking laws. Mr. Brown is leaving the position of Cashier of the Painted Post National Bank within the next week to take charge of the bank in Ticonderoga, N. Y.

Mr. Brown told his hearers that bankers have been forced in a rut during the past fifteen years by excessive laws, and that now they are more hedged about by the government with rules forcing all banks in the same class to pay the same interest rates. Before loans can be granted by a bank today the borrower's paper must satisfy a number of new rules such as rediscounting with Federal Reserve banks. On the one hand the government is insisting a banks assets be kept liquid, and at the same time banks are urged to grant loans for industrial recovery. The result of this long list of conflicting rules is that few banks are ready to undertake new enterprises.

The extent to which the government is getting into the banking business was shown by the speaker's statement that the last available figures showed that preferred stock in 6,452 banks is now owned by the government. Mr. Brown voiced his belief that reasonable regulation of banks is a good thing, but that under the contradictory rules of today few bankers can know where they stand.

The speaker was paid a fine tribute by Charles A. Brewster who introduced him. Mr. Brewster told of a number of Addison boys who have made successful careers in the world, and predicted the speaker would climb high up the ladder on which "he has such a good start".

There were 36 members and guests at the luncheon served by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Episcopal Church.

Cemetery Improved As CWA Work Project

Woodhull is justly proud of the improvement being done on the cemetery. Through the aid of the CWA, the drives around the cemetery have been graveled, culverts replaced and the trees trimmed.

All brush has been removed, the lots are being graded and the markers straightened. Many of the graves are unprovided for their upkeep and no one left to give them proper care but by this assistance they are again placed in good condition.

The fence is to be replaced also, which will add much to the improvements already made.

Editor of the Addison Advertiser
Addison, New York

Dear Sir:

I should like to express, through your paper, my appreciation and the appreciation of the other members of the Short Course, which was recently completed by the Agricultural Department of the Addison High School, to the Board of Education and to Mr. Finnerty.

I believe this Short Course is one of the most useful services that a school can render to the young men of the community and I hope that it will be made a regular part of the Agricultural curriculum each year.

Sincerely yours,
Francis Kane

The above letter from Mr. Kane refers to the Short Course just completed in the Ag Department of Addison High School. The course covered a period of six weeks with sessions Monday and Thursday evenings during the term. The course was probably the most successful effort of the kind ever accomplished in the county.

There was an attendance of 11 plus, at the 12 sessions, and those who took the course are planning to meet once each month during the year to discuss their problems.

The course was planned and supervised by Frank Finerty, instructor in the Addison Department of Agriculture. Assisting Mr. Finerty on different evenings were Paul Orvis, state section manager, William Stempfle head of the Steuben Farm Bureau, Dr. M. F. Whitmore of Addison, Mr. Bielby, Agriculture teacher of Bath, and Mr. Hall, Agriculture teacher at Hammondsport.

The subjects taken up during the course were: Gold and Prices, Shop, Milk Testing, Pasture Improvement, Farm Adjustments, Diseases of Animals, a Better Bull Program and Feeding Dairy Cattle.

Graves of Indians Found Near Erwin

Carved Pipe Discovered With Bones —Knees and Arms Near Head

An Indian burying ground near the Adsit farm on the Lindley road, not far from Erwin, was invaded by the white men's unsentimental steam shovel on Monday afternoon. Two graves were excavated, about fifty feet apart. Included in the group of workmen making the discovery were Harlow Brennan, Leon Riker, Michael Sheridan and others.

The bones were identified as those of Indian braves by the burial posture, the knees and arms being curled up near the head. The discovery was made at a point at about three feet below the surface of the ground. In one grave was found a black composition pipe, crudely carved around the bowl with eyes, nose and other human features. No evidence was found of any burial box or casket. The bones had deteriorated into an almost pulpy condition and were easily breakable. Fourteen teeth which had become disengaged from the skull, were removed from the dirt.

Bejamin Grant has purchased the Wilson Stryker house of Ford Woodward. Mr. Grant and family are moving to their new home this week.

Miss Evelyn Perry of Addison visited the local school Friday.

Cornell Man Tells Dairymen At Borden, "It Would Be Dangerous To Diminish Number of Cows"

Professor M. C. Bond Addressing Dairymen's League Delegates Voices Belief New York Milk Producers Are Nearing Better Times—"Have a Huge Potential Market", He Says.

About twenty delegates attended the Dairymen's League meeting held at the Borden Baptist Church Thursday, May 3, to hear Professor M. C. Bond of Cornell University analyze the present day milk situation. Preceding the main address, Director Herbert Seeley led a period of discussion which brought out the attitude New York dairymen assumed towards the federal milk control plan. Protests were voiced concerning a series of daily newspaper articles on milk, recently printed in Steuben County, which the speakers declared cast misleading inferences against the League.

Supervisor Bennett of Howard gave a brief report of the recent Syracuse meeting, at which representatives from the federal agriculture department laid the proposed milk production control plan before a group of New York dairymen. Mr. Bennett stated that only two men in the New York group were in favor of the proposal which the majority felt was planned to help the middle western farmer instead of the eastern man, and a distinct blow that might rob the New York dairymen of their metropolitan fluid market.

Professor Bond opened his remarks with the ascertion, "We have passed through the most serious peace time decline of prices in history. But we have started on the climb back to normal prices."

WHY CONTRIBUTE?

The Republican state committee has just announced it will start a campaign for wiping out the debt of some $105,000. There is nothing unusual about the appeal itself, yet there is something unique about the direction in which the call for help is aimed, for Chairman W. Kingsland Macy has directed his appeal particularly to the men and women whom heretofore have refrained from participation in party politics.

It is a decidedly unorthodox move for a political party to appeal for funds to the rank and file of people who have always stayed outside the fold of councils. The common and accepted custom is to send S. O. S. calls when money is needed to the so-called "deserving" politicians in line for jobs, and to certain groups of big business men who would have heavy axes to grind on the party stone, if victory were achieved. Therefore the obscure voter, with or without leanings toward Republican doctrines, might be expected to ask why he or she should dig even lightly into pocket to pay the debt of a political organization from which they expect no direct favors.

If party politics are to be run along the old fashioned lines of yesteryear; if nominations for office are to be dictated in the new saloons as they used to be in the old saloons; if the ungifted "ward-heeler" is still to be first heir to all the offices a party can bestow, then indeed there is no point for the unassuming citizen to contribute a single dollar. But, if a half million unassuming citizens who believe in Republican principles of government should contribute only twenty-five cents each, and back up their contributions with a determination to see the right candidates nominated in the primaries, it would be the greatest movement for political betterment ever undertaken in this or any other commonwealth. Quite possibly Chairman Macy had this very thing in mind when initiating this appeal.

The distinguished political writer, Mark Sullivan, has reiterated again and again the thought that it is too bad a new political party cannot be born overnight to declare its opposition to many of the revolutionary aspects of the New Deal. His idea can be expressed in the obvious thought that when Republicans express opposition to the New Deal they are immediately accused of taking a stand for party reasons. While few Democrats on the other hand, dare to raise their voices against what they may believe to be wrong policies, because they would be cutting their own political throats. The person who stops to think things through must admit there is a lot of truth in the premise.

A very few Democrats have flown in the face of party allegiance to express opposition to certain phases of the New Deal. They realize along with Republicans whose attitude is attributed to selfishness, that the way we are treading is drifting dangerously near the drop-off into Socialism. Socialism in its most ideal operation would be a state where everyone enjoyed a mean average scale of living. Theoretically the wealthy would be pulled down to that level and the poor lifted to the same plane, but as Socialism certainly destroys the private initiative we must expect the level of equal living would be sunk far below the standard of Mr. Average Citizen of today, and approach the scale endured by the lowest estate of men. All one needs to do for proof, is to glance at Russia.

The biggest hope today for sound solution of the puzzle-picture of America, is for the rank and file of Americans to interest themselves in the conduct of politics. Democrats as a body dare not turn their backs upon the many quack nostrums dished up for our consumption. No new party can be born overnight to steady the helm while the radicals are urging a hundred new and dangerous medicines that might easily dismember the craft. If the drift towards Socialism is to stop, then Republicans must rally together to stop it.

THINGS ONE REMEMBERS

According to the most authentic report, the German and Russian press are bound and gagged by dictatorship and the people are fed only such opinions as the ruling powers desire. Such a breach of liberty would be intolerance in the United States. In all history, hard-won freedom of the individual has been safeguarded by a free press and free speech. Even an innocent gesture toward trespass upon such freedom, must be resisted.

PROMOTING TUGWELL

Doubtless many people who still believe they led comparatively happy lives in the terrible old capitalistic days of a decade ago, were not too pleased to learn the President had elevated Dr. Rexford Tugwell to be Undersecretary of Agriculture. For Tugwell is known to be the No. 1 man in the government's Brain Trust, and there is a general suspicion he is a dangerous radical bent on "regimenting" industry, overthrowing the profit system, and shaking the foundations of the Republic.

Two reasons have been mentioned why the President has acted. One is the obvious fact that the new job would pay this prime favorite of the Administration $10,000 a year instead of the $7,500 he has been drawing as Assistant Secretary of Agriculture. The other reason appears to be the President's determination to retort to the loud criticism of this Brain Truster by showing him a special mark of public preference.

Those who do not think Tugwell is a radical should take time to ponder a few excerpts from his books. Here are some samples: "There can be no secure peace in the world so long as the people are engaged in industry of independent units . . . It ought to be a source of wonder that a society could operate at all when profits are allowed to be earned and disposed of as we do it. . . . We shall all of us be made unhappy in one way or another, for the things we love, as well as things that are only privileges, will have to go. The first changes will have to do with statutes, with constitution, with government. We shall be changing once for all and it will require the laying of rough, unholy hands on many a precedent. . . . The future is becoming visible in Russia."

Thus has spoken Dr. Tugwell, prime favorite of the group of Brain Trusters. With men like him whispering into a ready ear of the Executive, that he should do this, and he should try that experiment, no wonder business falters on the road to recovery, wondering just what benefit there is laying out capital in the age old adventure of manufacture and trade, if this leading to socialism is to be thrown into high gear. No wonder it is frequently said that our colleges are full of Socialism — Tugwell is absent from a chair in Columbia where he had many credulous young listeners to soak up the doctrines of submergence of individual initiative, emergence of state control of everything in life.

It is inconceivable how a man of Dr. Tugwell's intelligence could hold up all that Russia holds today — misery, intolerence, degradation, regimentation, starvation, atheism, state control of everything—as something to look for better than the days just behind us; "the future is becoming visible in Russia". That is just the point, our highbrow American radicals do not play up the true picture of Socialism, just as the Russian leaders try to mislead the rest of the world concerning true conditions in the Soviet.

It is a strange paradox that college professor members of the Brain Trust like Tugwell, should be so vehement in their denunciation of all that has made possible the industrial growth of this country. The truth is, that few men like Tugwell could ever have enjoyed a professorship, save for the generosity of the generals of business and finance who have flourished from time to time in this country. Who is so ignorant not to know that practically all our American Universities owe their growth and wealth to the gifts of the despised capitalistic class, this group would willingly erase from our civilization. Erase them, bad as many certainly have been, and the very props of civilization are wiped out.

TOO MANY BILLS

Governor Lehman was faced at the end of the last session of the Legislature, with sorting out and acting upon some 750 bills passed in the insane rush of the last hours our state lawmakers sat in Albany. Year after year the same thing happens; legislation is voted upon in the closing minutes of a session and often passed, which few senators or assemblymen would have voted for, if given time for calm deliberation. It is a condition which should be arrested before the load of silly and pernicious laws pile any higher upon our statute books. To leave the final decision of these bills on the shoulders of a state's governor, however able, is asking too much from one person.

One of the bills rushed through this year while the legislators were in this last minute fog, was a measure that would greatly broaden the scope of the prison parole boards, permitting them much wider powers in turning loose the outcasts of society. Most people believe that far too many dangerous men have been paroled in the past, and judges have gone on record as opposed to the present system of turning dangerous men loose to prey upon society. The killer Dillinger is a shining example of what repeatedly happens, usually in lesser degree, when confirmed criminals are given freedom.

Some way should be devised to stop this annual spasm of law making in the final hours of the legislature. It is not humanly possible for any legislator to read and pass judgment on such a mass of bills during the time they are considered. Some rule of procedure should be enacted to halt this unwise rush, dangerous and uncalled for. One measure possible, would be to disallow any member of either house to introduce more than one bill during the final week of the session. Thinning out the grist of bills would give members a better opportunity to sift the wheat from the chaff, and detect the savor of ill-advised legislation before it was brought to last-minute vote.

Much Tricky Legislation Hangs In The Balance As Governor Has Thirty Days to Act on 759 Bills

When Governor Lehman returned from his Atlantic City vacation he found approximately 750 bills on his desk awaiting action. These are known as "30-day bills," meaning that he has 30 days after the close of the Legislature in which to sign or veto them; any not acted upon in that time die a natural death. These include only the bills passed during the last 10 days of the session. To put it another way, during thhe first 100 days this year's Legislature passed 325 bills. In the remaining 10 days it passed 750. When it is remembered that it was actually in session only a small part of the time in those 10 days, one gets an idea of the speed with which bills are rushed through in the closing days of the session. And they usually include some of the most important measures of the year. Here is a situation, in existence for many years, which loudly calls for correction. It is undoubtedly the chief cause of such scenes as marked the close of the 1934 session, of which no one can be particularly proud.

Hundreds Dead, More to Die

A total of 4,330 bills were introduced in the two houses — 2,020 in the Senate and 2,310 in the Assembly, of which about 1,100 were passed and sent to the Governor. Three hundred and sixteen of these have been signed and are now laws, a few have been vetoed. Of the remaining 750, probably a third will be vetoed. Ocasionally an Executive who does not care to commit himself either for or against a bill will administer to it a "pocket veto"— that is simply do nothing at all with it within the 30-day period, and allow it to expire by limitation. That, however, is rather rare.

Hearings Will be Held

On a number of the highly controversal bills the Governor will hold hearings, at which advocates and opponents may appear and argue their case. One of this is the Quinn-Robinson bill giving the Parole Board much more leeway in turning loose prisoners under sentence. Many think the board has too much power already, or uses it too freely, and police authorities and judges have been free to critize the bill as the greatest menace to society in many years. They point out that under it more than 2,000 prisoners would be eligible for parole by September 1. Also to the fact that the famous outlaw, Dillinger, and at least one of his associates, whose raids in the Middle West have resulted in 13 deaths in the past couple of weeks, are paroled prisoners. The hearing on this bill promises to be heated.

This One Was "Sneaked Through"

Another bill which the Governor will be strongly urged to veto is that of Senator Duncan O'Brian, of New York City, Democrat, which purports to be for relief of the holders of defaulted mortgags, but really appears to be for the benfit of the title and guarantee companies that issue them. There are half a million people in the State who have their savings invested in guaranteed mortgage certificates to the face value of about a billion dollars which are in default A commission was appointed to investigate their plight and recomment legislation for their relief. Bills were framed on this recommendation, and it was supposed they would be enacted. Instead, they were smothered in the closing hours of the Senate, while the O'Brian bill, under a misleading title, was slipped through both houses in what is characterized by a veteran of the Capitol as "one of the most brazen 'rush acts' in the history of the State." Its language is legalistic and involved, and those who have studied it say it would not help in a situation which is crying for relief.

Great Mystery May be Solved

If the Governor signs a bill now on his desk a great mystery may be solved. You may find out what's in your bologna and your hamburg, steak. Speaking of the hamburg, especially, Commissioner of Agriculture Baldwin said in urging passage of the bill, which would set up State regulation of licensing of slaughter houses: "Reports indicate this article of food is being sold for prices so low that there is a question as to just what kind of meat is used in making it.

New Laws on the Books.

The latest batch of bills signed by Governor Lehman include the following:

Extending for one year the present mortgage moratorium and the law designed to eliminate abuses in deficiency judgements.

Prohibiting State banks and trust companies from acquiring a bank building exceeding in value the institution's capital stock.

Requiring that candidates for embalming and undertaking licenses shall serve a two year apprenticeship instead of one as heretofore.

Providing that minimum workmens' compensation in cases of permanent total disability shall not be less than $15 a week, except where wages are less than $15 a week, when it shall be the amount of the wages.

Providing that no trees shall be set out or removed on State highway property without consent of the Superintendent of Public Works, or on county highway property without consent of the County Superintendent who shall have control of all shade trees along county roads except in incorporated villages.

Republican Party Campaigns To Wipe Out Its New York Debts

State-wide campaign to wipe out the debts of the Republican party in New York and to provide operating expenses until the Gubernatorial campaign opens was announced yesterday by W. Kingsland Macy, Chairman of the Republican State Committee.

The campaign will be directed by William Ziegler, Jr., Treasurer of the Committee, Judge Thomas D. Thacher, President of the New York County Bar Association and former United States Solicitor General, will head the money-raising effort in New York City. Lawrence B. Elliman, prominent real estate man, heads the Uptown Manhatten group.

Hubert C. Mandeville, Elmira attorney, is leading the fund-raising effort in the Southern Tier.

The sum of $105,000 is needed and each section of the state will be asked to contribute its quota. A special appeal is being made for the active participation, both in the fund-raising effort and in party affairs generally, of younger men and women who "believe in good government, but who heretofore have taken little interest in party politics."

"The Republican State Committee," said Mr. Macy, "is the central governing body of the party in this State. It is so constituted by law and comprises representatives elected in every one of the 150 Assembly Districts in the State. It is only by the success of this centralized movement that the election of a state ticket can best be assured, a success which is bound to carry with it the election of a Republican State Senate, Republican Assembly and an increased representation in the Republican Congressional Delegation from the State."

"All loyal Republicans will be urged to contribute to this fund. The appeal for financial support is made entirely upon the basis of the party's objectives, and upon its accomplishments thus far. The money will be used for just two purposes:

"1. To pay off the debts of the State Committee.

"2 To provide the ordinary and regular running expenses as well as party educational work from now until the end of September.

"We believe the record of the Republican party in the state, its program for the future, and the opportunity it has for victory in the fall all merit the financial auppport of the rank and file of the Party. We are encouraged by the fact that despite Democratic control of both national and state administrations, the Party has increased its majority in the New York State Assembly, and lacks but one vote of a majority in the Senate.

"These facts, plus the confidence the Party's actions have created, only emphasize the favorable situation to which I have alluded. We are convinced that voters of the state will not forget that we put aside thoughts of selfish political advantage when we led a fusion movement to bring about the election of Mayor Fiorello H. LaGaurdia. Neither will they forget that we insisted and carried through the Seabury investigation; that Republicans in the legislature have supported Mayor LaGuardia's economy bill, and Republican votes in the legislature brought about a reduction of $21,000,000 in the state budget several years ago, the first step in that direction in many years.

"The first and most necessary step toward Republican victory in the State," he continued, "is financial independence. This means that we must lift the Mortgage that is on the Party, and must have sufficient operating expenses. Tammany has many methods of gaining financial support, as investigation has shown. The Republican party has but one suorce for its funds: loyal Republicans who feel that their Party can not be self respecting unless it is self sustaining.

"We hope and believe, however, that this source will be broadened. We believe that there are thousands of voters, particularaly, among younger men and women, who have lost, or have never attained interest in party politics because they believed parties were operated for the selfish interest of a few. The program of the Republican State Committee has aroused a new interest in these voters. They see an opportunity to participate in a movement that has good government as its sole object, and they are willing to give their energy, their intelligence and their money to such a program. Evidence of such willingness reaches us daily from many who heretofore had not taken enough interest to vote.

The campaign headquarters is at 100 East 42nd Street, New York City.

'World's All Right' Play Big Success

Sherman Slocum and Velma Harbeck in Leading Parts—Delightful Singing and Dancing.

(Deferred from last week)

A spectacular success was scored last Thursday and Friday nights by the comedy presentation, "The World's All Right", staged under the auspices of the Addison M. E. Church in the Opera House.

Prior to the curtain a musical prelude was rendered by Mrs. Fred Berry playing at the piano; Wesley Smith, the violin; David Stiker, the cornet; and Charles Cook the drum. The play opened with Sherman Slocum as "Jimmy Waddell" announcing the children's story hour over the microphone of radio station WAR. Jimmy's troubles in keeping a step ahead of the sheriff and quelling the spirit of resentment and unrest among his unpaid broadcasting talent, were numerous indeed; but many and varied as they were, Sherman portrayed them all, ably seconded by Miss Velma Harbeck in the feminine lead.

To go on with the play, however, the "Children's Hour" introduced a clever array of tiny boys and girls who enacted the "Tin Pan Parade" with harmony and zest. To the melody of "Just whistle and blow your blues away" a dancing specialty followed. Girls in the group were Ellen Aldrich, Ruth Dininny, Mary Gardner, Louise Watkins, Onolee Little, Jane Carson and Betty Perry, supplemented by a second group of eight, including Lois McKay, Marian Dann, Marian Curtis, Marjorie Curtis, Wilma Burlingame and Marsha Dickerson.

The Hill-Billy chorus, introduced as the second number over WAR in Jimmy's superlative effort to arouse the financial support of Mr. Dinkel (Dix Curtis) was a lively skit which not only revealed some excellent acting but infused the audience with a spirit both sentimental and gay. "When They Cut Down the Old Pine Tree" was the first selection of Jimmy's mountaineers, — and how they sang! Then in bounced the sailor, Harold Hibbard, with a dancing number which was a corker. Dick Teachman, as "Cy Perkins", gripped his hearers; another song, "Pretty Red Wing" by Wesley Smith, drew great applause, and Henry LaChance with another vocal number was equally well received. A pantomime skit, "He was Her Man But He Done Her Wrong", introducing Girard Stiker, Hobie Chatfield, Maynard Allen, Fred Berry and others in one of those thoroughly enticing "eternal triangle" affairs, which after all was not so maewestish as the caption implies.

"Melody Miss" by Miss Albertta Evertts left memorable impressions of this sterling young singer's delightful voice with everyone in the house. Other melodies including that masterpiece of Victor Herbert, "A Kiss in the Dark", "Soft Summer Breeze" and "An Old Fashioned Garden", all supported by quaint dancing numbers and effective stage lighting, were particularly pleasing.

And those dancers! There was seemingly no limit to their repertoire. Time and again, in varied settings and varied costumes, they came back and never failed to please.

The vested choir introduced a note of solmenity and fervor along with an excellent rendition of leading religious hymns by mixed voices from the local choirs. Included in the selections were: "Holy, Holy, Holy," "Oh, You Come to Your Church, and I'll come to Mine", and "Now the Day is Over", Recitation of the Twenty-third Psalm by the Rev. Ralph Webb left a forceful impression.

Jimmy Klock made a hit as a two-minute spellbinder in telling the vast unseen audience just why the world is all right. The "Stars and Stripes Review" brought on a note of pageantry, both lightsome and soulful, with Uncle Sam (Lawrence Thomas), soldiers, sailors, dancers all atune. Along with Mr. Thomas, Mrs. George Kingsley as "Columbia" enacted her part particularly well.

Curtis Taylor, as the upstart office boy who emerged as the radio hero, "Lovin' Sam", filled a difficult role and did it remarkably well. Madeline Short broke into the charmed circle of favorites with her solo selection in support of her darksome consort, "Sam".

The play ended as a good play should — with "Jimmy" and his secretary freed from the throes of adversity and living happily ever after. It revealed a wealth of talent, dramatic, musical and artistic, here in our midst. Excellent coaching was evident throughout the show and much credit is due to the Rev Ralph Webb and others who assisted in assembling the personnel and to Miss Schaeffer under whose direction the play was produced.

THRIFTY home managers have found that Electric Refrigeration more than pays for itself. Food dollars go further. It is almost like getting an increase in the household budget. There is less waste from spoilage as foods are kept fresh four to five times longer. Left-overs can be kept for days and made into appetizing dishes. Bargain day specials may be bought and kept with the assurance that they will be fresh when needed.
When you consider that one out of every four dollars the average family spends goes for food and that, of this, ten cents out of every dollar is wasted, you can readily see that Electric Refrigeration is an economy, not an expense. Dairymen Are Interested In Record Service

One hundred fifty farmers have written the farm bureau during the past few weeks in request for information about the Dairy Record Service.

One reason for this unusual interest in dairy records is due to the market for milk of high butterfat test, especially for Grade A.

The principal reason is that a record of the production of individual cows pays big dividends. With this information it is possible to balance feed to production and thus save feed otherwise wasted on poor producers.

In knowing the production of the individual cows it is possible to raise calves only from the best producers. Still another advantage is that the unprofitable cows can be culled out from the dairy.

The farm bureau office offers two types of dairy record service. One is the Dairy Herd Improvement Association, the tester of which spends one day a month with each member, weighs the feed and milk and tests for butterfat.

This same information can be had by membership in the Dairy Record Club. In this case the farmer makes the weights and takes the samples which are mailed to a central testing labratory. The Record Club is better to smaller dairies.

Both services are reasonably priced and are available to all farmers. Complete details will be furnished those interested by the farm bureau office.

How What and Why?

This paper has arranged with the Office of Information of the New York State colleges of agriculture and home economics to answer questions about problems of farm and home. If you enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope, and mention the name of this paper, you will receive a direct reply to your query from the colleges. Do not ask more than one question in one letter or on one post card. Ask as many questions as you like, but make each one a separate communication.

Frost Driven Deeper?

H. S., Liberty, asks: "Why is it that, at the first spring thaw, the frost is driven deeper into the ground by the warmth above? We would think it would thaw out."

Professor R. A. Mordoff of the meteorology department answers: My own idea is that frost is not driven deeper into the ground by the warmth above, but that the ground temperature lags behind the air temperature.

"The ground continues to get colder as winter progresses, and the low temperature in the soil goes deeper whether the air temperature is a little warmer or a little colder on any particular day.

"For example, on my farm we have water pipes from the spring to the barn. This water froze this year for the first time on March 1, or three weeks after the coldest weather occurred. On the day it froze the temperature was fairly high, and it stayed frozen for about six weeks. To me, this indicates that ground temperature lags behind air temperature and the frost is not driven deeper by the warmth above."

Chemical in Cesspool

R. N. H., North Syracuse, writes, "I have heard of a chemical or acid that can be dumped into a stone-walled, but uncemented cesspool to dissolve the organic matter in surrounding earth. What is the name of this chemical, and how should it be used? Do you think it prolongs the life of a cesspool?"

Professor J. C. McCurdy of the department of agricultural engineering replies: I would not advise putting any chemical in the cesspool, and I do not think it would prolong its life. A better plan is to build a new cesspool."

Ocean Deposits

Mrs. E. E. W., Binghamton: says. "I am sending a sample of shale taken from my farm which contains some salt or metal of ocean deposit. I wish you would examine it for me.

"Also imbedded in rock on the farm are oysters and other shell fish, and layers of soft blue clay. Traces of oily secretions can be seen. Is it possible to tell what glistens in these shales?"

H. I. Tucker, curator of the department of geology at Cornell University, answers: "The sample of shale contains shining specks of mica, and is stained with iron. It is a very common rock type. The shale was deposited in a very ancient sea, as were all bedded rocks in this region.

"The Binghamton area was, of course, under the ocean for a long period of geologic time. Rocks can be expected to contain fossil remains of both plants and animals which were living in the ocean when the sediments were deposited. These sediments later hardened to form shales and other types of rock.

"I am uncertain about traces of oil you mention in the shale. Iron rust on the surface of stagnant water is often mistaken for an oil seep. This rust breaks up when disturbed, while oil spreads on the water surface. Of course, very black, highly carbonaceous shale is occasionally rich enough to become a possible source of oil at some remote time when our present easy supply is exhausted or when ways are found to extract oil cheaply from shales. I doubt if such shale is common in your area."

Model Improvements At Judge Smith Farm

A model Farm Bureau ventilating system — the first in Steuben County — is being installed on the farm of Judge E. C. Smith. The new-type system, which is sponsored by both the Farm Bureau and the New York State Department of Argriculture, keeps a steady flow of pure air going through the barn at all times both summer and winter.

Anther Farm Bureau inovation, a model bull pen, is also being installed on the Smith farm. This includes a stable for the bull, an exercise pen and breeding rack. This new style pen eliminates all necessity of using a staff or of handling the bull. This also is the first of its kind in Steuben County.

The Smith farm is operated at the present time by J. W. Scott .

Bath Trustees Oppose Hospital

Contend County is Amply Served By Hospitals in Hornell, Bath and Corning — Additional Expenditures Should be Avoided

The village trustees of Bath went or record at a meeting last week in opposition to the proposed 65-bed hospital at the county home. It has been proposed to include a hospital project in the T E R A plans, the total cost being about $85,000, of which the expense to Steuben County would be approximately $21,000.

The resolution adopted by the Bath village Board read as follows: "We, the Trustees of thhe Village of Bath, N. Y., observe a persistent agitation for the construction of a 65-bed hospital at the Steuben County Home near Bath, a project which has been stated could be provided and equipped with the assistance of the T E R A at a total cost of $85,000 from which Steuben County's share would be in the neighborhood of $21,000.

"Our inquiry and investigation in this situation fixes our conclusion that this hospital is unwarranted for several reasons. First, in view of present county debt any unnecessary expenditure should be avoided in relief of taxpayers; second, we believe the county is already providing hospitalization for its charges in hospitals at Bath, Corning and Hornell as cheaply, if not cheaper, than they could be cared for in a county hospital; third, with improvement in general economic conditions, present demands upon the county should decrease; fourth, if the people at this time should authorize a county hospital it would stand as a permanent institution, the annual maintenance of which would prove most burdensome for all taxpayers; sixth, if any construction at the county home is necessary, it should be a structure of most modest cost as an infirmary for care of aged and bed-ridden patients, warranted; but in our opinion no hospital is needed.

"Therefore, be it resolved that we ,the Trustees of the Village of Bath, N. Y., do respectfully address the members of the Steuben County Supervisors asking them to refrain from joining in any commitment of Steuben County to the construction of this elaborate, expensive hospital as proposed. We further call attention to the Supervisors that they are not to be mislead by any propoganda that the state exercises any mandatory powers upon the supervisors in this situation. It is the Supervisors themselves who will decide, and in the interest of public economy, efficiency, as well as in consideration for the already overburdened taxpayers, we respectfully request the Supervisors to remain uncommitted in this situation."

the farmers various rebates in the form of processing taxes, the speaker said: "The AAA program is based upon the number of 'all cattle', and 'all cattle' have increased much faster in the last fifty years than dairy cattle. Since 1880 dairy cows have not increased as fast as the population. By far the greatest increase in dairy cows has been in the west north central region which nicludes the states of Minnesota, Missouri, North and South Dakota, Nebraska and Kansas where the increase during the last 24 years has been approximatelv 65 per cent, while in New York the number in 1934 is only 2 and a fraction per cent more than it was in 1910. There has, however, been an increase in population per cow amounting to about 10 per cent. There are less cows per person in this state now than there were in 1880. Facts do not bear out the ascertion that New York farmers have contributed to the butter surplus, as contended by federal men, for only 2 per cent of the total production of butter in the United States is made in the North Atlantic States.

Due to the fact population has kept on increasing during the last few years, while milk production in the New York milk shed has been lessened, we are faced with the fact that to diminish the number of cows now might cause a serious shortage soon. We will need what production we have when the depression ends, for as more people go back to work the demand will increase. We must view our problems from a long-time angle in a biological crop like milk, not to risk loss of this fluid market which has given the eastern dairyman so much higher prices than producers in other parts of the country. So far the New York City Board of Health has stood firmly with the eastern producer by excluding milk from outside the New York milk shed. It stands to reason we must not demand too much at this time, for it would be a bad blow to our dairymen if milk were admitted to the metropolis from the west. It is encouraging to know that the potential market for milk is very large.

"It is always necessary to have about 20 per cent surplus of fluid milk in order to take care of the fluctuations, both in production and demand. The dealer who has only a fluid milk market can afford to pay a higher price to the producer, because he does not carry the surplus. When he has an emergency demand, he steps into the bulk market and buys enough to tide him through the shortage. The big dealer, on the other hand, must always carry a surplus to meet whatever emergency should occur and this loss affects what he can pay the producer. It is an axiom of the fluid milk business that the 'dairyman assumes responsibility to furnish all the milk the market requires, at all times'."

Professor Bond showed charts to prove the facts and figures he presented the dairymen. These charts showed the fluctuation of cows thru the different cycles, the purchasing power of milk and beef cattle in the United States for the past 54 years, butter production and consumption since 1849, the rate of increase of herds in the east and central west during the last 24 years, and various other statistics of interest to milk producers.

He concluded his talk with the statement: "The program of the Dairymen's League to consolidate plants, thus eliminating wasteful competition, is a forward-looking move. The matter of shipping milk in tank cars alone, effects a vast saving for the dairymen."

Following his talk Professor Bond answered many questions asked by the delegates.

CORNING PITCHERS EASY FOR A. H. S. SLUGGERS

Coach Hewson's Boys Continue Pennant March At Northside

Playing errorless ball behind the fine flinging of "Smokey" Joe Hopper, the Addison High School base ball team coasted to an easy 10-2 viceory over Corning Northside. In beating the big Corning school so decisively, the Knights showed they have everything a fine nine needs to win a pennant; strong pitching, fine catching, errorless fielding and walloping hits to shove runners across the plate.

Northside was lucky to score any runs as they could collect only four hits off the speedy slants of Hopper. But the Corning diamond was bad, the slab being in terrible condition with a heap of loose dirt which gave no footing at all. Knowing the shape the mound was in the Northside pitcher did not try to toe the slab at all. Joe attemped to pitch from the correct position and was thrown off balance so he issued a couple of walks in the first inning, which mixed with a couple of walks gave Jacoby's men a start in the scoring column they never should have had. After the first two innings Hopper moved on solid ground and the Tigers were held at his mercy the rest of the route as he struck out 8 men. Flynn pitched the seventh inning, striking out one more Northsider.

Hallett led the Addison slugging attack with a pair of two baggers. Hadlock made a double and a single and was robbed of another long, extra base drive by a beautiful running catch by Darmstadt, who raced deep into right field to snag the ball. Iverson made two great catches on first that pulled the Tigers out of a couple of bad holes. Every Addison player made at least one fine play during the game and the Knights showed up their rivals in every department. Their nine hits were good for a total of fifteen bases, and every player going the route made a run, except Red Mathews, whose scorching triple was a sight for sore eyes.

Corning used three pitchers, all of whom were pretty wobly against the Addison attack. Between them they gave up nine bases on balls and five wild pitches, in addition to the nine Addison hits.

An interesting fact about the game was the terror Robbin's arm has apparently instilled in potential Steuben base stealers; not a Northsider took a chance trying to steal second or third on the local backstop.

The victory puts Addison safely on the top beside Hornell for league leadership, the Knights having now beaten both Corning teams, while C. F. A. stands at 500, having eked out a 8-9 win over Bath last Saturday. Hornell has beaten Bath and Painted Post.

Unique Demonstration Car That Stopped Here Battles Carbon Monoxide Menace

the quantity of carbon monoxide on highways and in interiors of cars.

The tours are being conducted by Cities Service Oil Company, long active in the fight against carbon monoxide, in an effort to explain to operators of motor vehicles the dangers of this deadly gas and the proper way to eliminate them.

The demonstration machine is housed in an Areocar,which is the result of developments of the late Glenn Curtiss, nationally known aviation pioneer. The interior of the "Rolling Schoolroom" is divided into two rooms, the larger of which is attractively furnished with leather ceiling and walls and linolem floor. Chairs for 14 people are provided as well as electric lights and ash trays. At the front of the room is a screen used to show moving and steropticon pictures illustrating talks on automotive subjects.

The rear compartment of the car contains one of the latest type Power Provers, a machine which accurately measures motor efficiency, and a complete set of valuable and exclusive Cities Service tuning tools. The clock-like dial of the Power Prover is visible through the rear window of the car.

The demonstration came here under the auspices of Fred G. Clark, district distributor of Cities Service products. Demonstrations were made through the territory served by Mr. Clark's trucks.

Carbon monoxide poisoning is more general among motorists than the fatalities indicate. Severe headaches suffered by bus and truck drives have been traced to poisoning from this gas in quanities insufficient to cause immediate death. Many accidents are doubtless caused by drivers becoming drowsy from the effects of the gas, and losing momentary control of their machines.

One of the large insurance companies was approached on the idea of underwriting the expense of a series of tests by the Power Prover. Officials of the company stated they would pay for the tests if two per cent of the cars investigated proved to have traces of monoxide inside the bodies. A large number of cars were stopped on the road and tests made by the Power Prover showed 50 per cent of these autos were found to be subjecting the passengers to these deadly fumes.

It is believed by Mr. Clark that the future car testing station will not stop with trying lights, brakes and horn, but will test all cars for traces of monoxide gas poisoning.

Addison Loses Close Game To Fast Tioga Nine

Tioga Tri-County League team took the measure of the Addison tossers in a hotly-contested fray at Tuscarora Field last Sunday, 8 to 7. The game was played as a warming up encounter in preparation for the formal opening of the league season on May 20.

Don Grange started on the mound for Addison and twirled good ball for six innings. Riker served back of the plate, with John Grange on first, Hewson on second, Heidrick, short and Toby third. Doddato, Riffle and Finnerty were in the outfield. When Toby succeeded Grange in the pitcher's box, Riker moved down to first and J. Grange went to third. Stowell took up the catching assignment.

Steve Fvalkowski made his debut on the firing line for Addison, succeeding Toby, in the ninth. Frank Finnerty belted out three timely hits and made two flashy catches in the outer garden.

The two teams will clash again on the Tioga field this coming Sunday. Manager Riker has been putting his men through a number of stiff work-outs during the past several days and holds high hopes that the Addison boys will top the score sheet in the next encounter.

"Pete" Riker At The Helm

Ed Morris Does a "McGraw"—Sends Aggressive First Sacker As His "Terry" To the Wars—New Leader Was Formerly Backstop for Tri-State College.

Leon Riker will manage the Addison Tri-County League baseball team during the '34 season, succeeding Ed Morris, who had held the reins during the past several years. After reluctantly acquiescing to demands of players and fans a few weeks ago that he again assume direction of the team, Ed definitely withdrew from active leadership and is understood to have been instrumental in the selection of the heavy-hitting Riker as his successor.

"Pete" as the new manager is known to Tri-County League sport followers, has guarded the initial bag for Addison during several recent campaigns. He is a peppy, aggressive player and possesses all the qualities which make for successful leadership. In Addition to his infield reputation, he is a catcher of ability and will likely work behind the bat during a portion of the present season's play.

Before coming to Addison, "Pete" played with the high school and town team nines at Spencer, N. Y. He was also in the backstop position for Tri-State College at Angola, Indiana, during 1925-26-27.

A.H.S. Plays Bath Friday – Hornell Here Next Week

emy, joint sharers with Addison at the top rung of the league ladder, should not be displaced in the 1,000 per cent column by Northside. Hornell has defeated Bath by a top-heavy score, and turned back an invasion of the Post Indians last Saturday 3 to 2, so Jacoby's weak nine should not even give the Maple City lads a battle.

If both Addison and Hornell win Friday the stage will be perfectly set for a real battle of bats the following week, when the two leading league teams meet on the Addison diamond. This will be one of the most crucial games of the season for Coach Hewson's men and the Addison mentor will be overlooking no bets in having his charges fit and ready to turn back the Hornell invasion.

Chevrolet Plant Working Nights

Truck and Car Production, Totaled 110,000 In April — New All-Time Record For Day's Pouring of Molten Metal

The Chevrolet gray iron foundry, largest in America, has set a new all-time record by pouring in a single day 2,152 tons of molten metal in the making of castings for Chevrolet passenger cars and trucks.

During the last month, the average daily tonnage poured has been 1,787, and the hourly tonnage is being further stepped up to meet the increasing demands of car and truck production, which totaled over 110,000 in April.

Shipments of castings for cylinder blocks, pistons and transmission housings, carburetors and other foundry products, in March alone, totaled 32,752 tons. The castings are shipped from Saginaw to be machined into finished units at the Chevrolet axle plant at Detroit, the motor plant at Flint, the transmission plant at Toledo, and the Bay City (Mich.) plant, where castings for carbuetors and other small units are finished.

The foundry is now working day and night, with two batteries of 12 cupolas in action. The heavy duty machinery, such as the conveyor lines on which the moulds progress from start to pouring and on through the cooling period, is installed in duplicate to provide for continuous pouring; this arrangement permits full production to be kept going constantly, since the maintenance and care of each set of machinery can be carried out while the duplicate equipment is in use.

Masonic Master Returns From Grand Lodge

William Newman, Master of Addison Union Lodge, No. 118, F. & A. M., returned Friday night from New York, where he had attended the grand lodge of the State of New York.

"Bill", reports a good time and many memorable sights, intermingled with the more serious features of the lodge sessions. On Wednesday afternoon he witnessed Bill Terry lead his world's champion Giants to a 7-6 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers. He viewed the metropolis from atop the Empire State Building, the world's tallest building, but unfortunately the atmosphere was hazy, and only the tops of other skyscrapers were visible in the distance. The Aquatania, renowned British liner, was viewed in drydock. Trips through Central Park, up Riverside Drive, etc., were other features.

Amasa Travis, master of Cameron Mills Lodge, and Charles Kilmer, master of Woodhull lodge, accompanied Mr. Newman.
